PLAYGROUND

Power Plant

The potato as a superfood? It can't be! For a long time, the potato was considered to be something eaten by farmers, far from haute cuisine or food trends. Today, it's making a comeback in the world's top kitchens: the fact it contains a lot of vitamin C and healthy minerals makes this ancient solanum one of the most important sources of energy in international dishes. How do you make a potato sexy? Shape it and drape it on the black and sand-coloured articles in the new ELEMENTS stoneware collection.

CHEFS' MUSE

Be it Swedish Hasselbacks, hash browns or potato soup with bacon, ELEMENTS lends the aromatic 'farmer's truffle' international star appeal. The new look is brought to life on the BLACK and SAND glaze variants. Design lovers appreciate the clear look: the cylindrical shapes are rounded off by softly shaped bases.

THE NEW EASY

No longer taboo: sought-after street-food classics and snacks such as fish and chips or crisps have moved from food trucks into restaurants. Interpreted in a modern way and served in a delicious new look.
